

The Trailer Depot Selects Pat Munger Construction for New Headquarters Provides Turnkey Design/Build Services

Branford, CT – (December 2004) – Pat Munger Construction is near completion of a new headquarters and show room for The Trailer Depot. Munger's turnkey design/build solution will result in an aesthetically fitted Varco Pruden prefabricated steel building topped with a colorful metal standing seam roof.

The Trailer Depot has outgrown its East Haven facility. "We need more outdoor space for our trailer inventory and more inside space for a showroom, retail parts and offices", said Mike Duhamel, Vice President. "Our new building provides a rustic look and convenience that will please our customers."

After finding affordable space that satisfies their outdoor inventory needs, they began a search for a quality builder. Instead of searching directories and going through an arduous proposal process, Duhamel and his management team relied on friends who had invested in buildings with the look and feel required for The Trailer Depot. VanWilgen's Nursery in Branford and the Town of North Branford Public Works Department highly recommended Pat Munger Construction. Duhamel stated, "They were very satisfied with their Munger building. After visiting their sites, we knew who we wanted to build for us. We didn't get a proposal from anyone else."

Munger designers were able to take Duhamel's hand-drawn sketch and turn it into a cost effective, aesthetically pleasing design. Taupe cedar shake siding, boysenberry colored roof and wood shingle covered porch with overhang provide a very desirable country rustic look enhanced inside by a customer waiting area with coffee bar and antique farm tool décor.

Duhamel stated that, "Pat Munger Construction builds win/win relationships and is easy to work with because of their professionalism and attitude. Everyone seems happy to be at work. Their team takes ownership and is accountable for on-time delivery from start to finish with no excuses. We are impressed with their honesty and integrity."

According to David DeMaio, Munger President, "We are excited about this opportunity to design and build a new headquarters for The Trailer Depot. We are on track to meet our commitment. I look forward to handing them the keys on March 1, 2004."

Pat Munger Construction: David A. DeMaio
Phone: 203-483-3645
Email: daviddemaio@patmungerconstruction.com

About The Trailer Depot

The Trailer Depot provide trailers, hitches, parts, accessories, installation and repair services to customers in the northeast. Consumer, business, agricultural and government customers benefit from standard applications such as auto, cargo, equipment, landscape, utility, vending, horse & livestock, ATV, motorcycle, snow mobile, snow plows and sanders. We also satisfy tailored applications for mobile marketing, mobile workshops and mobile command posts.
800-860-3579; www.thetrailerdepot.com.

About Pat Munger Construction

Munger provides tailored, cost effective, best-in-class buildings for industrial and commercial customers. We cost effectively apply the best mix of prefabricated steel, structural steel, wood and masonry within client facilities. Our team of professionals works with clients from land acquisition and site planning through construction and certificate of occupancy. Munger provides all materials and management services for site work, concrete work, steel erection and construction as specified in the design. Warranty services are specified in each contract. Proven by an array of successful projects, repeat customers, skilled and loyal people, Munger's reputation as a quality builder shines brightly.
203-483-3645; www.patmungerconstruction.com